45.                   this direction. What are we going to do? We'll be sent to the spice mine of

46.                   Kessel or smashed into who knows what! Wait a minute, where are you going? ↵

47.                   The Death Star plans are not in the main computer. It will be enough. If the

48.                   ship's as fast as he's boasting, we ought to do well. What a piece of junk. ↵

54.                   and a cunning warrior. I understand you've become quite a good pilot yourself. ↵

55.                   And he was a good friend. Which reminds me. I have something here for you.

56.                   Yeah?This R2 unit has a bad motivator. Look! Hey, what're you trying to push on ↵

57.                   us? Excuse me, sir, but that R2 unit is in prime condition. A real bargain.

58.                   Uncle Owen. Yeah? What about that one? What about that blue one? We'll take that ↵

59.                   ↵

60.                   ↵

61.                   one. Yeah, take it away. Mos Eisley made its first appearance in the original

62.                   1977 film, Star Wars. It is depicted as a busy, bustling port city situated in a ↵

63.                   desert plain, populated with transients of all species. The lawless spaceport

64.                   attracts criminals, smugglers and fugitives.[2] Spacecraft land at docking bays ↵

65.                   dotted across the city. The Mos Eisley scenes occur early in Star Wars, when

66.                   the young hero Luke Skywalker and his mentor Obi-Wan Kenobi travel to the spaceport ↵

67.                   in Luke's landspeeder in search of a pilot, accompanied by the droids, C-3PO

68.                   and R2-D2. Obi-Wan warns Luke that the spaceport may be dangerous. Upon arrival, Luke ↵

70.                   ↵

71.                   and Obi-Wan enter the cantina, a dimly-lit tavern patronised by visiting

72.                   starship pilots. Strong drink is on sale at the bar and there are frequent outbreaks of ↵

73.                   violence among the clientele. The cantina attracts a range of exotic alien

74.                   species, although droids are not permitted to enter the bartender orders them to leave, ↵

75.                   saying "We don't serve their kind in here". A band of domed-headed aliens

76.                   plays a set of otherworldly jazz-style music. Luke is threatened with violence by ↵

77.                   two of the customers, Ponda Baba, an Aqualish, and Doctor Evazan, a deformed

78.                   human, but Obi-Wan intervenes with his lightsaber, cutting Ponda's arm off in the fight. ↵

79.                   This is the first time a lightsaber is used in combat on-screen in the Star

80.                   Wars franchise. Obi-Wan introduces Luke to a pair of smugglers, Chewbacca and Han Solo, ↵

81.                   and they negotiate terms for passage to the planet Alderaan, which prompts

82.                   Luke to sell his landspeeder to get the money they need to pay Han. After Luke and Obi-Wan ↵

83.                   have departed, Han is involved in a brief confrontation with Greedo, a green-

84.                   skinned gangster the exchange ends violently when Han shoots first and Greedo dies. ↵

85.                   As the group prepare to leave, they are followed to Docking Bay 94 by

86.                   Garindan, a spy working for the Empire. Following a brief gunfight with Imperial stormtroopers, ↵

87.                   they board the Millennium Falcon spaceship and take off from Tatooine. ↵
